SPOTLIGHT

Mrs. Worwood's 2nd grade class recently had the opportunity to learn about a local organization called the Opportunity Fund for Developing Countries (OFDC) which seeks to empower women and children through education. They decided that they wanted to join the cause and make a difference. They started by writing letters to children in Kenya and received letters back!

They also decided as a class to make piggy banks and collect as much money as they can to donate at the end of the school year. Here are some excerpts from our 2nd graders' letters:

I'm excited to know someone way across the world. I would like you to become a scientist. I will make money and donate it. -Brooklyn

How are you doing? Hope you're having fun in school! By the way what is your favorite color? I'm so so soooo excited to be your pen pal. -Savannah

We are going to make a piggy bank. I am going to do my chores so I can get some money. I hope you're being good in school. -Aeris

We are making piggy banks with money to donate to the kids in Kenya...I think they will like it! -Joel
